

Cargo Weight Guidelines and Surcharges

In order to comply with both U.S. and Canada local and highway transportation laws, Westwood will not participate in the transportation of any container that exceeds applicable over-the-road regulations.

Westwood offers the following guidelines for maximum container payload/cargo weights.

In the event that any container received exceeds these guidelines, Westwood will evaluate all options available to meet the road legal requirements. Any additional charges incurred to meet road legal limits will be for the customer's account.

United States - Additional Weight Considerations:

Gross Weight - Maximum allowable weight for trucks on U.S. Interstate highways is 80,000 lbs., including tractor weight, chassis, container and cargo weight. Non-interstate limits are normally lower and vary.

In addition, it is possible to be considered overweight as follows:

Axle Weight - Allowable gross weight on a single or set of axles is regulated by individual states. States typically allow 34,000 lbs. per tandem axle and 20,000 lbs over single axle.

Over 50% of all U.S. citations issued are for axle weight violations, usually the result of uneven distribution of the load inside the container.
